NEW EPISCOPAL CLERGYMEN.

Thirty-three Were Graduated Yesterday From the General Seminary.

Thirty-three men were graduated from he General Theological Seminary in Chelsea Square yesterday, and if they succeed in one more examination, that in their respective dioceses, there will be that number of new Episcopal ministers. Even that number, it was said yesteday, is only two-thirds of the number needed, and the class is eight or ten smaller than the usual output. The commencement exercises took place in the chapel, Bishop Hall of Vermont presiding, Bishop Johnson of Los Angeles reading the lesson, and the Rev. Dr. F. J. Kinsman singing the prayers and service. The diplomas were presented by the dean the Rev. Dr. Wilford L. Robbins. There was conferred upon the Right Rev.

Dr. Joseph H. Johnson, Bishop of Los An-Dr. Joseph H. Johnson, Bishop of Los Angeles, the degree of doctor of divinity. The seminary trustees voted the same degree to the Right Rev. Dr. Edward J. Knight, Bishop of Western Colorado; the Right Rev. Dr. T. N. Morrison, Bishop of Iowa, and the Rev. Dr. William P. Du Bose of the University of the South, but by a new ruling those who actually receive seminary degrees have now to come in person and get them. Not being present the three last named did not receive their degrees yes

At the meeting of the seminary trustees the Rev. Dr. Loren W. Batten of St. Mark's church, this city, was elected a professor. The place is one he has been for some time filling. He is not to leave his rectorship, and so that he may not the Rev. F. B. Blodgett was elected adjunct professor. Prof. Hayes said some sharp things about examiners in dioceses not asking questions in line with seminary training and inveighed against mere catch questions. The last Episcopal general convention appointed a committee to look into the matter of seminary control. Trustees are now seseminary control. Trustees are now selected by a roundabout process. Members of this committee came to New York a few weeks ago and asked the faculty to come individually before them. This the faculty declined to do, but it was fixed up after some discussion that they might all come together. The meeting was, however, put over until fall. The aim is to bring the seminary up to date a little more than the present up to date a little more than the present dean, who has done something in that line. has been able to do.

The late Bishop Coleman of Delaware was president of the associate alumni. In is place the association elected the Rev Dr. J. Nevett Steele, long vicar of Trinity Church, this city. At the alumni dinner the new president presided and addresses were made by Dean Robbins and others.

MAUDE ADAMS AS VIOLA. The Play in the Elizabethan Manner Before the Students at Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 3.—Miss Maude Adams appeared before Harvard College to-night as Viols in "Twelfth Night," her first performance of the part which next season will be at the head of her repertoire. Sanders Theatre was transformed as nearly as possible into a replica of the Swan Theatre Shakespeare's day, and Shakespeare in the Elizabethan manner had a fair trial. The players moved so close to the audience that Miss Adams and Dean Briggs could smile into one another's faces, and as the smile into one another's races, and as the performance went swiftly and smoothly—the text was played without outs in two hours and a half—it was possible adequately to compare the old with the new—To-night's audience certainly enjoyed the old and cheered Miss Adams long after the player received.

the play was over.

FREE ROCK DRILLING CONTEST. Men Stranded by Mining Show Will Fight It Out at the Garden.

The Mining Exposition in Madison Square Garden closed up on Tuesday for lack of support before the hand rock drilling con test for the championship of the world, which brought here the chamipon teams of Butte, Mon., and Globe, Ariz., had been held, leaving the rock drillers stranded.

Since a $500 silver cup made by Tiffany and donated by W. H. De Laney of Pitts-burg as the championship prize has not been presented the contest for the cup is to be held free in the Garden to-morrow night. The Butte team, Walter Bradshaw and Michael McNichol, and the Globe drillers, Louis Page and Joseph A. Pickens, will compete in an effort to beat the rec-ord of 435-8 inches in fifteen minutes. The blind team, Harry Rodda and Michael Davey, will do exhibition drilling. A collection will be taken up in the Garden in the hope of getting enough funds to send the champion drillers back home.

ORANGE HATTERS ORDERED BACK Told by Officers to Go to Work With Non-Union Trimmers.

ORANGE, N. J., June 3.-After a long neeting, of the hatters of the Orange district to-day President Michael Brennan ordered all the men to return to work tonorrow. With the return of the hatters an attempt will be made to find out whether the manufacturers can secure outsiders or non-unionists to take the places of the women union trimmers.

President Brennan's order followed a long consideration of the situation. National President John A. Moffitt warned the men that if they insisted on standing by the trimmers contrary to the national by-laws they might precipitate a general tieup of the hatting industry thoughout the country, and under such circumstances the national strike benefit fund would be exhausted in

It is said among the men that they will not return to work with non-union trimmers lespite the warning of the national officers.

M'INTYRE PUTS IT ON RYAN

SAYS THAT HIS PARTNER MAN-AGED T. A. M'INTYRE & CO.

nd That He Himself Withdrew From th Management Just Before the Panie Last Fall-Did Not Know That Customers' Securities Had Been Sold.

According to Thomas A. McIntyre it was George C. Ryan of Syracuse who managed the affairs of T. A. McIntyre & Co. for some ime prior to the failure of that firm. Mr. Ryan has said on the witness stand that ne was only a clerk and that Mr. McIntyre had always been the head of the concern. Mr. McIntyre, testifying before United States Commissioner Gilchrist yesterday afternoon, declared that on October 1 last he turned over the entire management of the business to Mr. Ryan and after that date had nothing to do with the business except to draw out what was coming to him.

This information was brought out when Irving L. Ernst, counsel for the receiver, got on to the subject of the firm's loans, in which it appears securities belonging to customers and virtually held in trust for them were used as collateral or sold.

Both Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Ryan have peen indicted for some of these transactions. and at the last hearing it was agreed that questions which might have a bearing on the criminal cases should be barred. It was contended, however, that this agreement covered that hearing only. Mr. Ormiston, counsel for Mr. McIntyre, objected strenuously to Mr. McIntyre answering any questions on the subject of the loans vesterday, but Mr. McIntyre persisted loans yesterday, but Mr. McIntyre persisted in answering.

"I want to tell the truth and I don't see how it's going to incriminate me," said McIntyre. Mr. Ormiston had the record show that in each instance he had advised his client not to answer.

Mr. Ernst wanted to know who had given the loan clerk his instructions and Mr. McIntyre said that it was F. R. Wheeler, the first grapher. the firm's cashier.
"Did you ever direct the sale of any securi-ies in these loans?"

"Did you ever direct the sale of any securities in these loans?"

"I did not," replied the witness.

"Wasn't it your practice to pick out the securities for loans?"

"It was not. I looked over the loans occasionally to see how they stood, but that was only once in six months."

Mr. Ernst wanted to know if any member of the firm other than the witness had discovered.

of the firm other than the witness had di-rected the sale of these securities in his

"The question of buying or selling these securities was never considered by any member of the firm to my knowledge," Mr. McIntyre answered after some hesitation, and he declared that he did not know of his own knowledge that any such securities had been sold. The matter of these loans had never been submitted to him and was entirely in charge of the loan clerk and cashier.

Mr. McIntyTe declared that an account appearing on the books as "No. 275" belonged to the firm.

"If my partners disclaim it," he said, "I'm ready to take it, as it shows $90 profit."

All the active partners managed this account, he said. The active partners, he said, were George C. Ryan, E. T. White, his brother, John G. McIntyre, and himself. The hearing was adjourned until to-morrow afternoon.

A TRUTHFUL WOMAN AUTOIST. 20 Miles an Hour? No, Sir; 25!-So the Chauffeur's Under Ball.

Mrs. Thomas Denny's insistence on absolute truth was instrumental in the holding of her chauffeur, Hiram Reed, on a charge of speeding in the Jefferson Market court Pennsylvania ferry.

"He was doing twenty miles an hour," said the policeman "He was not," interrupted Mrs. Denny.
"He travelled at the rate of twenty-five interrupted Mrs. Denny miles an hour."

"What," cried the astonished Court,
"twenty-five miles! How do you know, madam?"

"Why, I timed it on our speedometer," replied Mrs. Denny.

"Well, that testimony is conclusive," said the Court. "One hundred dollars for trial."

Such a bill, says Brand Whitlock, Mayor of Toledo, is no more absurd than much of the legislation that the cities are getting at the hands of the country members.

The Free City, by Brand Whitlock, in this week's SATURDAY EVENING POST, is so sane and so chock-full of horse-sense, and so free from claptrap and buncombe, that we advise every thoughtful citizen to read it.
